IDENTIFIED!

THE NOTORIOUS SOPHIE LYONS

And Billy Burke, Alias Billy the Kid,

The Nerviest Bank Sneak in the World,

Attempt to Rob Traders' Deposit Bank.

Detectives Crawford and Witte Identify the Thieves,

Who Prove to be the Most Daring of Clever Crooks.

One of the Gang Released For Want of Evidence.

Another Who Escaped Was the Famous Paddy Guerrin.

They Visited Cincinnati and Robbed Merchant Wents.

Remains of Two of the Most Desperate Criminals in American History, Sophie Lyons and Billy the Kid, in Jail.

The examining trial of Schley, last Tuesday afternoon, before Judge Groves resulted in an acquittal, there not being sufficient evidence to hold him. He was prosecuted by County Attorney W. A. DeHaven and Col. John T. Hazlerigg, and defended by Col. Z. T. Young.

On same day two Cincinnati detectives (Crawford and Witte) arrived and identified the sneak and his female accomplice.

Returning to Cincinnati they reported the result of their investigation to the Registrar, giving a history of the two noted criminals, which will appear further along.

The officers went to the jail, and Owens was brought out. Detective Crawford got a look at him and said at once: "I know him." Owens held his handkerchief to his face and refused to say a word. He was placed on a chair to have his picture taken. He fought like a tiger, and no amount of strength could hold him in position long enough to catch his "snug." While he was struggling he was cursing every one, and once the headchief slipped from his face. The lower part was covered with a short beard. Crawford said he knew him, but could not place him. The officers continued to fight Owens to get his picture, and while the pulling and dragging was going on Crawford said: "Let him go, boys, I've got a good mug of that fellow."

Owens was taken back to his cell, and Crawford whispered to Witte: "That's Billy Burke, alias the Kid." The woman was brought out. She had a handkerchief

TOLD OVER HER EYES
And a big quilt was wrapped around her head and face. She could not be nudged. She did not say many words, and the detectives were about to give up when the woman began to abuse the officials for the accommodations in the jail.

Just as soon as she opened her mouth Crawford said: "Well, I don't want her picture. I've got a dozen good ones. That's Sophie Lyons."

Schley was trotted out, but he made an awful fight and the officers could not get his picture.

The Enquirer says: "The arrest is one of the most important made in years, as the prisoners are the leaders in their line, that is as far as Burke and Lyons are concerned."

Billy Burke, alias Billy the Kid, alias Frank Smith, alias Murphy, alias Petrie, is one of the most daring bank sneaks in the country. He is 32 years old, and was born and raised in Chicago. He is a printer by trade. At a very early age he was credited with being

THE NERVIEST BANK SNEAK
In the country. He has worked with such celebrated thieves as Rufe Pine, Minnie Marks, Big Ed Rice, John Jordan, George Carson and others equally as well known. He has been arrested 100 times, and has done several terms in the penitentiaries.

He first became prominent in 1881. At noon on August 1 two men drove up to the Manufacturers' Bank at Cohoes, N. Y. At the same time a man walked in and asked for change for $20. One of the men walked to the Director's room, and while the man was getting the change the other forced open the door and sneaked to the safe and stole $10,000. He was detected and followed into the street.

He dropped the money as he ran. The man who wanted the change ran down the street, and the thief who stopped in the carriage drove rapidly away. A good distance down the street he was joined by the man who wanted the change and both were driven out of town. The thief who made

Death of Judge Cox.

Judge Western W. Cox died at his home in West Liberty, Morgan county, Monday night, May 9, 1892. Some years ago he suffered a stroke of partial paralysis in this city, from which he never recovered and which caused his death.

He was a native of Morgan county, Ky., and was born September 28, 1825. His father, Solomon Cox, was born in Grayson county, Va., December 25, 1795, and moved to Morgan county, Ky., in 1812. He resided in Bath county several years and returned to Morgan county, where he spent the remainder of his life. He was a son of James Cox, who lived and died on New River, Va.

At the age of 23, Western W. Cox engaged in the mercantile business at West Liberty. In 1855 he was made deputy sheriff and served in that capacity until 1858, when he was elected Sheriff and re-elected in 1860. Before the expiration of his term he became a member of the Confederate Army, Co. A, Fifth Ky. Infantry, and was soon appointed Quartermaster. In the fall of 1862 he became Recruiting Sergeant under Humphrey Marshall. He returned to Kentucky in 1863, formed a company and joined the Tenth Ky. Cavalry, serving as Captain of his company; he acted in that capacity until 1864, when he was promoted to Major in the regiment; in January, 1865, he was promoted to Lieutenant Colonel, which position he held until the close of the war, surrendering at Mt. Sterling, Ky., in 1865. In 1866 he was again elected Sheriff of Morgan county and re-elected in 1868. At the expiration of his term he was elected County Judge of Morgan county and re-elected in 1874.

In 1878 he was elected School Commissioner and re-elected in 1880. Since 1870 he had also been engaged in Merchandising, farming and stock dealing at West Liberty. He owned large boundaries of land in Morgan county and was a substantial, enterprising man. March 1, 1849, he married Elizabeth Nickell, a daughter of Rev. Joseph and Rachel (Kash) Nickell, of Morgan county. To their union were born four children, three of whom are living viz: Mary B. Womack, Jennie L. Manker and Henry M. Cox. Mrs. H. Clay Turner, his other daughter, died in this city while here on a visit several years ago.

He was a staunch Democrat and a leading member of the F. & A. M. fraternity.

Back Yards and Disease.

The neglected back yard is the most successful incubator of zymotic diseases in existence. Their germs may burst into unhealthily vigorous in untrapped sewers and dirty sink pipes, but the filthy back yard is where they grow to their greatest power to wage devastating warfare upon human life.

It is there that the typhoid wages its deadly struggle and spreads life in its pride.

There are few back yards that would pass an examination for cleanliness and purity at the close of the year. All during the cold days of winter it is very convenient for Mary, or even the mistress herself, to open the kitchen door and throw the greasy dishwater or similar refuse out on the snow. It saved them time and trouble and a considerable amount of chaffing. Of course they didn't know they were planting the seeds of disease, but they were to a verity.

The warm sun is beginning to awaken life in them, and a month or two later that life will be seen at work on the lives of the children of the house. It is the duty of every household now to see that his back yard is given a thorough cleaning, its refuse moved to a place where it can do the least harm to human health, and a powerful disinfectant scattered where it formerly lay.

Stacked lime is good; carbolic acid is better, but the cleaning must be done in any event. The outlay will be inexpensive; the income will be enormous in the saving of good health and good lives as well.

Clean your back yards and disinfect them. You owe it to your children and your neighbor, and he owes the same to his and to you.—Kentucky Homestead.

Land hunger makes men work hard, and yet keeps them poor. The contented owner of a small farm is always to be envied. He is usually prosperous, his small farm is well-lit, look over the county you live in and see if this is not true.—Ky. Homestead.

HORSE AND TRACK.

Driver, 2:19, by Volunteer, won sixty-four races.

Nancy Hanks is booked for a fast mile at Philadelphia in July.

The best stallions in the Austrian government stables got two hours of exercise daily.

Rose Chief, the dam of Prince Wilkes, 2:14, missed to Red Wilkes this year.

Fred Arthur 2:14, and Strong Boy will come together in a race at Gallipoli, O., in August.

The dam of Nellie W., 2:14, will be trained this year. She is sixteen years old and has been used as a farm horse all her life.

Jos. Outhwaite has bred a sister to Direct, 2:06, to Stamboul 2:11.

Electioneer had not a 2:30 performance to his credit at thirteen years of age. At twenty-two he had sixty-six.

A set of racing harness, trimmed with aluminum is being made for Axtell at Terre Haute. The whole set will weigh but five pounds.

There is nothing on this green earth that makes a trotting horse breeder feel better than to win a colt stake with a youngster that he raised and developed.

Speed, size, soundness and individual excellence are the four aces in the pack of the trotting world, while cheap looking customers that can go along fairly well can be bunched as the dunces.

Somehow the prejudice against smallish mares for brood mare usage is wearing away. Jack, Dexter and many another have had for their dams these same undersized mares.

It is quite convenient nowadays to have a standard of morality that will allow a horse to start in a race against a watch, but not against another horse. "This is severing and dividing a hair 'twixt north and northwest side."

The day has almost dawned when it is possible for a trotter to earn as much money as a runner. From every nook and corner of the continent come announcements of big meetings and big stakes. Colt stakes, yearlings and two-year-olds have gone about as high as they can well go.

The practice of buying cheap stallions, reporting them as having cost fabulous sums, and then filling their books at four times larger than either their breeding or performance warrant, has become entirely too common. —Kentucky Stock Farm.

It is a singular fact that in all his campaigns Director met defeat but once by a mare, and this mare, Echora, which was afterwards mated with the black demon, produced little Direct (2:06). Echora has a record of 2:23, and was a very fast mare.

Five foals sired by Direct, 2:06, have been dropped in California this spring, and four of the number are natural pacers.

Mr. Russell Bailey had a very good sale of saddlers at Philadelphia recently, at the following sample lot will show. Besant, black gelding, by Great Marston, dam Sunon, $850. Laddie, bay gelding, seven years; Mr. McNeal, $200. Mary Hadley, bay mare, six years; Mr. Fitzgerald, $700. Barbour, bay gelding, seven years; Happy Cross; J. C. Turner, $875. Matchless, bay gelding, seven years, by Monte Cristo; A. H. Moore, $1,200. The total realized for nineteen head was $11,865.

Robert Steel, Philadelphia, Pa., has purchased the Doylestown, Pa., fair grounds for $15,000 and sold his Cedar Park Stud for $200,000. He will vacate the latter property late this season. Mr. Steel will purchase more property in the vicinity of Doylestown and locate his stock farm there.

The trotting world was recently startled by the report that the breeding of Arion has not been correctly given, the weak point being in the breeding of the second dam. There were two mares, both owned by the same man, and both in fact sold to Nutwood. These mares were in charge of a farmer in Wisconsin, the owner having gone to California. One was Addie by Hambletonian Chief, second dam Manton by Harry Clay. The second mare was bred at Woodburn, and was a full sister to Voltaire, being by Matther, dam Sunon Fortia by Mambrino Chief II.; second dam Portia by Roebuck; third dam by Whips, thoroughbred. This latter mare is the second dam of Arion, and not Addie. It appears that Addie had a colt and the sister of Voltaire a filly, and when the produce was sent to California the description was so imperfect that "the children got mixed up."

THE ADVOCATE.

The Modern Girl Better Off.

There is no doubt that Maud's great-grandmother would be shocked at the "look-up" of these latter days. The old lady would faint at the sight of her descendants' ways; but, after all, isn't the change for the better? Certainly the dress is better than the terrible lacing of revolutionary days, and if Maud does go "low-neck" to a ball, she appears on the street in a stout cloth gown. How any woman ever lived to be thirty in y. old time is a mystery. Why, the way they tramped about in no shoes and low necks and fasted themselves then and fed (supposedly) on illies is enough to make a gallanting convulsive invalid pale with envy.

Evelina, pale and languid, led poorly all day, except when she floated about like a sylvan in the rose garden. It is said to really enjoy, but one's private opinion is that the aforesaid Evelina and her chum of beef in the pantry. Why did Evelina spend all day in a rose garden? She was supposed to be studying the beauties of nature, or had the old man really sent her out to spray the hedges of the ladies?

Another weakness of Evelina's was her relapsing on all occasions into floods of emotion and "tears of sensibility." In fact, one is tempted to believe that she wandered about clothed in "her royal beauty" and an old pale green calico wrapper. But one can find a real reason for her "emotions."

Doubtless they were kept "on tap," and didn't lose their sparkle by frequent doublings of the eyelid. But it must have been real uncomfortable to sit at night learning how to weep and faint just at the right time.

But Maud irreverently thinks the "goings-on" of her great maternal ancestor a little cruel, and there is no doubt that she finds the "healthy" fashion far more enjoyable than the "dying-in-lady-Jane" style of beauty. Then Maud walks, drives, goes boating and plays tennis till the blister on her nose merrily of "cold cream." Still she enjoys it, and would not change if you could—Washington Post.

There once lived in the City of Mexico a Frenchman known as Otavio (little Otavio), whose rogueries kept the town in ferment. At one time he claimed to have discovered a specific for the rejuvenescence of women, and by means of sensational advertising he succeeded in gathering a clientele of forty or fifty ancient dames, who were assembled, on a certain day, in a long sils, tricked out with antiquated gowns, of brocade, silken and all the paraphernalia of charity. The conjurer presented himself before the ladies and addressed them in flamboyant language, ending as follows: "And now, senoras of my soul, it is my duty that the mystic ceremonies before us be opened by the oldest one among you."

Then, addressing her whose appearance seemed to indicate priority, he asked her age. "Thirty-seven years, senor," sniggered the beladame, who was at least in the seventh decade. "And you, senoras?" "Thirty-six." And so it went, he had got them down to a declared age of twenty years, with a maximum of thirty-seven. "Well, ladies all, you profess that without further proceedings the miracle is accomplished," said Otavio, "for the least gallant of men could not call such aught but youth whose years are but thirty-seven—and you see for yourselves that it is the age of the oldest among you!"—San Francisco Argonaut.

Physicians and Their Drugs. The active competition for a living that the physician in New York has to encounter has resulted in a curious method for stimulating trade. These are doctors in this city, graduates in due form and no doubt in many cases men of ability, who render all fees for consultation, relying on the profits they obtain from the medicines they prescribe for emolument. Certain standard prescriptions they have put up in quality, and these they sell directly to the patient. Where a prescription has to be compounded the patients sent to the nearest drug store, at which the doctor has an arrangement for his commissions.

Between these two devices the practitioner really captures a reasonable fee, and he gets it, moreover, in cash, where he otherwise might have to give credit, with a strong show of loss, for though patients will not dream of demanding credit for medicines, they make very small houses about leaving the doctor's bill unpaid once he has permitted them to run it up.—New York Cur. Pittsburg Bulletin.

Peculiar Pronunciation. A landlord always pronounced yellow as faller. We have heard Mr. A. R. Wallace, the eminent naturalist, during the course of a lecture, repeatedly sound it thus, a mode of pronunciation, said, indeed, to be traditional in many good old English families, and which includes the substitution of faller for fall. Room for Room? Good for good, and wonderful for wonderful.

A homely old rural dean, long since dead, used always, like Sam Weller, to leave out the "e" in woman, and his "Will thou have this man to be thy wedded wife" was apt to mar the solemnity of a marriage service.—London Tit-Bits.

TO IDENTIFY THE "UNKNOWN."

A Yankee's Scheme to Prevent the Mysterious Disappearance of Men.

The latest from the brain of the ingenious Yankee is even more practical than novel.

Day after day it is to be read in the papers that some unfortunate has gone into a grave marked "unknown," or perhaps some most prominent and respected citizen has suddenly disappeared from sight and gone—nobody knows where, the last possibly the sequel of the first.

Then again, after weeks of anxiety and suspense, some come home, or relative is frequently found dying or dead in some hospital.

Now comes the proverbial "Yank," and with a plan to alleviate all this. He has appeared with an invention, if such it may be called, which he styles "A Perfect System for Identification."

And, truly, if it were to be generally adopted, it could but give the morgue and place the "unknown grave" on the page of history only as a thing of the past.

Here is what the originator of the plan has to say:

"Fate and chance are the two uncontrollable factors in every man's life. A stranger to us may be, precisely as he can, the unknown events of the future bear down upon him with resistless force, and in a second he may be swept away to some death or meet with serious injury."

"In this active age, bristling with the dangers of rapid transit, electric currents, lofty buildings, fast automobiles, and the thousand and one complications of civilization, how necessary to exercise the utmost prudence!"

"Invention after invention has been put out and eagerly sought by the public for protection until it would seem that there could be no improvement. And yet, so important of all has been overlooked, and that is a system for identification."

"The 'Yank' has supplied the missing link."

"The 'prudence' of which he speaks consists in one registering with the office of the concern which he proposes to establish, or in fact has already established. The cost would be trifling, probably one dollar for the first year and fifty cents for each subsequent year."

"In return the subscriber receives a fireproof and 'indestructible' metallic badge, which is to be attached to, if a male, the suspender, and if a female, to the corset. On the outside of this, in large letters, are the words, 'If dead, injured or unconscious use the other side.'"

"On the other side is a number, no two badges containing the same number. There are also instructions to telegraph this number to the headquarters of the concern and the statement that they will then notify the unfortunate's friends. The number is no sooner received at the office than the clerical force will turn to it on their records, where, opposite to it, will be found not only the name of the person on whom the badge has been found, but a perfect description of the same and the address of his or her friends."

"The person is identified.—Boston Globe.

Steamboat Steam and Scurvy. Steam should never be put into a brick or cement sewer, as it has an injurious effect on the same, causing disintegration and collapse within a very short time. Neither should it be led into a brick chimney for the same reasons. In some places it is the practice of engineers to turn the exhaust from pump and other engines into the sewers, but this is bad practice, and we believe an illegal act in some cities, for it will not only destroy the sewers, but the heat of the steam makes the material gases more active, while at the same time it produces that will force the gas back into buildings through the water traps commonly in use.

In these traps there is seldom more than three inches of water, and very little pressure is necessary to force the gas through them. Whenever gas is forced back through buildings in this or a similar manner, the death rate in that locality will certainly be greatly increased.—Stationary Engineer.

Pretty Good for a Five-year-old. If precocity is not indigenous to Wall street, there is something about that quarter which quickly ripens it. A youngster barely past five years has found that he can drive a good business at selling papers and a young man, known broker's office. When the market goes the right way for his customers, he is saved the trouble of making change for the same and sits like that drop in his palm. The slump caught one of his patrons the other day, and when the lad came around with the papers he was greeted with a proposition to take full price for one paper and for another a suspender button.

"I can't suspend-a-button," hissed the grinning youngster. This being the case, the boy left the paper, the market drove was straightway forthcoming.—New York Times.

One Of A Kind. "I see most of your hair is gone," said Brown to Burton. "Yes," replied Burton, "it's left for parts unknown."—Kate Field's Washington.

MT. STERLING, TUESDAY, MAY 17, 1892.

CITY TICKET.

For Mayor, R. C. Lloyd.

COUNCILMAN.

First Ward, C. H. Bryan.
Second Ward, J. W. Barnes.
Fourth Ward, C. H. Pety.

FOR CONGRESS.

We are authorized to announce Hon. C. R. Brooks, of Mt. Sterling, Montgomery county, as a candidate for the 32d Congress from the Tenth District, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

According to the opinion of the Attorney General, bank taxes are required to pay 1892 taxes as heretofore on July first, but in the future as individual property.

"No politics," a journal of this kind, edited in a Democratic town, usually has an editor who is a rank Republican. The out-croppings will come, and invariably they are Republican. Its policy is for revenue only.

"We don't consider there is but one non-political paper in Mt. Sterling."—The Journal.

"Would that we could see ourselves as others see us." Dear Journal, mugwump is stamped on your forehead, though it may be "for revenue only."

We never went into a Democratic primary and then supported a Republican—Journal.

Very true, but then you went into a Republican convention which sent delegates to the State convention which nominated Asbury, the negro, and failing to vote for him your reasoning is bad if it don't identify you as a Mugwump. Stick to your doctrine and take your own medicine, though your policy is "for revenue only."

The Farmers' Alliance and the Prohibitionist have many measures in their platform which are Democratic, but the Gilled Bull for the people, a relief, can be obtained only through the Democratic party. That each of these organizations has not been fruitful of beneficial results no one would gainsay, though this statement is apocalyptically impugned. They are facts unalterable, and whatever is for the common good in any organized party should be adopted by others.

Judge W. W. Cox, of West Liberty, died from heart failure on the 9th inst., aged 65 years. He was one of the leading citizens of Eastern Kentucky in Democratic doctrine. He has held many responsible offices in his county from sheriff to County Judge. He was a Major in the Confederate army and had a warm place in the hearts of his people. Some years ago he received a stroke of paralysis and from that time has been in failing health. He was the father-in-law of H. Clay Turner, of this city, who attended his funeral.

The Farmers' Alliance, organized for the purpose of promoting the interests of the farmers. Under Republican rule there was no evidence of relief, and everything with which they were connected was on the decline, going from bad to worse. The Advocate, believing there is a remedy for them, and that it can be attained through the Democratic party is for them in every measure Democratic. The twitting expressions of the Journal in regard to the ground which we occupy in this matter carries with it but one meaning—It has no regard for the Alliance movement, nor is it in sympathy with farmers in any of their burden bearing.

If the editor of the Journal is a Republican unwavering, a party representative a lover of Republican principles, including the Pure Bill and the entire Republican proscription, why under the sun, gifted as he is with the pen, vigorous in thought and style, is it that he does not edit a Journal in accord with his faith unless he fears it is not good for his business. No, no, brother editor, your joke as to the negro councilmen won't hold water. Down deep in your heart is a desire which found vent in your threatening language. Read the Journal of the date prior to the city Democratic primaries, follow it by the threat from a rank Republican heart and let the liberal citizens draw their own conclusions.

THE K. P. A.

In Lexington, May 10th and 11th.

The Lexington Press Club, individual members of the local press and citizens of Lexington, united in their efforts all every preparation had been made for the entertainment of the Kentucky Press Association. Members began to arrive on the evening of the 9th and while their feet were on Lexington grounds until they took their departure on the 12th, it was to them an continued round of pleasure and enjoyment. The Queen City long ago won her reputation for hospitality and she has never suffered the stranger within her gates to think for one moment she would allow her reputation to suffer in this regard.

The Association was represented by leading journalists from all over the State. Addresses of the highest order with much valuable information were delivered. Extracts would mar and we have no space to give them in full, hence we can only make mention of A. Y. Ford of the Courier-Journal delivered the annual oration which was listened to with attention interest. Subject, "The Partisan Press."

Miss Lila Bell, of Georgetown, daughter of Editor Bell of the Georgetown Times, read an excellent paper on "The little I know about a country newspaper."

On the evening of the 10th there was a brilliant ball in honor of the citizens guests at the Phoenix Hotel, in which Mayor Davidson covered himself with glory. It was appreciated by Kentucky editors to that extent that it will never fade from memory. On the 11th the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, C. M. Meacham, of the Hopkinsville, Kentucky; Vice President, S. J. Roberts, of the Kentucky Leader; Secretary and Treasurer, Col. Ion B. Nail, of the Farmers Home Journal. W. B. Dobbs, of the Scottsville Sentinel, was elected annual orator and Captain Sam Gaines was elected poet.

Then the reading of some very instructive papers took place and resolutions were adopted as follows:

Resolved, That the thanks of this association are due, and are hereby expressed, to the citizens of Lexington, the Lexington Press Club, the individual members of the press, the Kentucky Association and the railroad companies for the manifold courtesies extended to us during our present session in the Queen City of the Blue Grass land.

Lieutenant-Governor M. C. Alford and J. Hull Davidson were elected honorary members of the association.

The selection of a place to meet next year was, on motion of Mr. A. Y. Ford, left to the Executive Committee.

The following Executive Committee was appointed by the Chair: Chairman, Colonel E. F. Johnson, of Frankfort; Messrs. John O. Hodges, of Lexington; J. H. Westover, of Williamstown; Thomas H. Arnold, of Middleborough and H. W. Van Sunden, of Paducah.

The meeting then adjourned.

The business attended to outside the regular routine was of little importance. In our judgment the report of the committee on the legal advertising law instead of being tabled should have been placed in the hands of another committee with direction to bring the matter before the attention of the present Legislature. It is not an interest entirely to the press, but the people at large; only an organized body can properly press the matter, hence the mistake. As to the foreign advertising, that seems to be sleeping. The majority of local papers will continue to suffer at the hands of advertising agents until they combine and demand prices on a basis of subscription. Other much needed business of the craft should have been attended to though it be at the sacrifice of pleasure.

Detrimental to the business of our association is the extravagant manner of entertainments. Business before pleasure should govern every meeting, even if it should do away with hops and banquets.

At the home of the distinguished Clay, the garden spot of the world, Ashland, the Press Association was entertained by Major H. C. McDowell. Luncheon was elegant and everything was good for the inner man. His stable of fine horses were exhibited, noted among them was Dictator, the celebrated King Rene, America's greatest prize winner, and others.

Next they visited the State College where they received a cordial welcome and partook of luncheon, after which they visited Kentucky University, Hamilton College and Bell Electric Works, then came the banquet, which we will only say was extravagantly grand.

Lexington is the coming city of the South, surrounded as it is by the richest and most productive agricultural country contiguous to that part of Eastern Kentucky which is rich in all grades of the finest coal, iron ore, stone, timber, fire clay, etc. Its system of railroads connecting North, South, East and West with lines to the sea coast; free from the disastrous effects of booms, with vast amounts of money in their vaults; men of courage and enterprise; a foundation for a large and flourishing city is destined to be one of the greatest business points of the South. No difference where the association meets another year, in point of entertainment Lexington will not be second, but lets have less eating, less sight seeing and more business pertaining to journalistic interests.

A few weeks ago the Journal was decidedly political. The next issue it notified the people that they were not using a political sheet, and their issue of last week says:

"Yes, everybody who knows us know what our politics are."

Followed by the idea that they are not for a negro for a State office; and yet it is as silent as the grave on the point, "I will elect a negro Councilman in the third ward." Only in this, "We did it as a joke." The negro is not good enough to be endorsed by the personal suffrage of the afore-said Journal. A joke? And, yet it is nothing politically, but sees fit to criticize the action of city Democracy executive committee, and sees no fault in the Republican ranks. Hence it is not Democratic and since it failed to endorse the Republican action as to its negro Asbury, though that was long before the Journal's birth, and is referred to as not having been repeated. It cannot be counted on as a Republican, but by its own admissions declarations, and line of argument aside from jokes is real active Mugwump. The Journal editor must repent of this grievous party sin before he can be restored into the fellowship of the G. O. P. unless in refusing to vote for this Republican nominee it was another one of his jokes.

Every family should be provided with some reliable remedy for bowel complaints. The want of such an article is the cause of much suffering, especially during the summer months. In almost every neighborhood some one has died, with cramps or cholera morbus, before medicine could be procured or a physician summoned. A fair trial will satisfy you that Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is unequalled for these diseases. It is also a certain cure for dysentery and diarrhoea. When reduced with water and sweetened, it is pleasant to take. Children like it. For sale by T. G. Julian.

FARM AND FARMER.

Don't permit hogs and fowls in the same yard. If the fowls don't eat the hogs, the hogs will eat the fowls. In either case the food costs more than it comes to.

It is said that in firm land the frost will go much deeper than in land that is loose. As it is desirable that the frost should go deep it would appear very advantageous to have the land as firm as possible.

Propping heavily loaded fruit trees of any age is a mistaken policy. Thin out the fruit until the limbs need no props, first picking off the specimens injured by insects, and then the smaller ones. There is money in this work, though it may look otherwise at first. A tree allowed to over-bear will soon be dead, or will become feeble and fail to bear to half its capacity.

When burndog grass around the house or stable and along the fence is often difficult to start the fire in a number of different places without using a large number of matches. A good plan is to make a kerosene torch by tying some old sacking in a ball on a stick, soaking same in kerosene and setting fire to it. This torch will last for quite a long time and will be found of great assistance in burning over large areas of ground.

In nature there is a general overruling law which is roughly stated in the common saying, "The weakest must go to the wall," the action of which is very self-evident to those who have given much attention to the study of birds and insects. It is only when man so modifies nature that the law does not have free action that the balance is destroyed, and evil results. Insects, as well as the birds, doubtless have their proper place to fill in the great scheme of creation, and, like many things else, when held within bounds are for the common good. "When the cat is away the mice will play." So when the birds are scarce the insects abound, sometimes to our discomfort, and even dismay. I do not wish here to make any plea for the protection of birds on the grounds of beauty of their form or coloring, or the sweetness of their songs, but upon the purely utilitarian basis of guardians of crops from the destructive workings of the various injurious insects. Some birds do not eat insects but the list is small. Audubon has stated that a woodcock will eat its own weight of insects in a day. The common chipping sparrow destroys many a tent caterpillar moth. Birds have been constantly on the decrease, from the destruction of the forests and other more direct causes due to man, while on the other hand, the insects have steadily increased. There seems to be an eternal hatred of birds born with some fowls, which it is painful to see in its varied manifestations. The stoning of old birds, robbing their nests and killing the young, is to be strongly condemned. Kindness to our feathered friends must come largely from home and school training. Parent and teacher can do much in this regard.—American Agriculturist.

All dairy scientists, teachers, preachers and writers are agreed that the cow on every farm should be milked at the same time every night. We agree with this theoretical and practical host of advisers; but how about the common farmer? We mean by the term "common farmer" the man who says to his hired help "come" instead of "go" when the heavy work of spring and summer is to be done. Such men have to hustle in the fields and as a rule find it a very difficult matter to be on time every night when the cows should be milked. Often during haying time clouds begin to lower, and the anxious farmer and his "help" remain in the fields as hour or so longer in order to put the crop out of danger. So it is during harvest. And then there are a hundred and one other incidents and accidents that during the season tend to delay the milking hour. Now men who want to know from such what we are alluded to is, will it pay to let other things go by default so that the cows may be milked on the stroke of the clock? Will there be, during the year, a loss of milk so serious as to make it worth while to milk always at the same hour no matter what happens outside of the cow stable? For the man that makes the dairy business his chief occupation, there is of course no excuse for not milking at a stated time each night and morning, for he can afford to have a milker whose chief business it shall be to see that the cows are treated in this way. But for the common farmer we fear it is out of the question. He doubtless will arrange his work on the farm in such a manner as shall enable him to milk and do the rest of his chores at a reasonably regular hour, but the clock-work regularity of the dairyman will not be easily managed. It is well to milk as regularly as possible, and at no time should the cows be made to suffer. depend upon it that nature will prevent their suffering, if it is a common occurrence, for she will speedily dry up the milk.—Farmers Review.
